Australia Day

People in Australia celebrate Australia Day on 26th January every year. It's special because on this day in 1788, British people arrived in Australia for the first time. This was eighteen years after Captain Cook discovered the continent.

Today, Australia Day is one of the biggest celebrations in Australia. It's a national holiday. There are outdoor concerts, music festivals, sports competitions, parties and fireworks all over Australia. In Sydney, there's a famous boat race in the harbour. In Perth, people can watch free films at an outdoor cinema. In Alice Springs, people born on 26th January can cut a big birthday cake!

Columbus Day

On Columbus Day, people celebrate the day the explorer Christopher Columbus first arrived in the Americas. Columbus was Italian, and lots of Italian-Americans celebrate this day.

In the USA, Columbus Day became a national holiday in 1937. There are usually big parades in cities like New York, Chicago and Boston. Some people stay at home and have parties with their friends and family. They don't eat American food, like hot dogs and beefburgers. They usually eat Italian food, like pizza and pasta.
